Miss Borden said she had no idea there would be any parental objection until Guinle got a cable from his mother on January 28 last, and from his brother, which said: "Don't do it. If you marry you will be put out of the firm." Guinle then wrote Miss Borden, saying that the objections of his family were too much to overcome, and that while it was a great blow to him, he would have to give no lits plans to marry.

MALONE SAYS GLYNN

Oust Bosses as Tweed Ring Was Smashed.

Fort. likened the situation and the opportunities of Gov. Martin Glynn to those of Samuel J. Tilden last night. Tilden smashed the Tweed ring and sent the canal thieves of his day to jail and if Martin Glynn, he asserted, will lend the power of his moral influence and attitude then those leaders who have robbed the State government and degraded the Democratic party at least will be driven out of public and political life.

Asserts After Democratic Club Action He'll Remain Tammany's Chief.

PRIMARY FIGHTS

Hostile Forces Expected to Try to Defeat at Least 14 District Leaders.

After talking with Charles F. Murphy yesterday the leaders of Monday night's noisy revolt at the National Democratic Club about decided to abandon their pur-pose of appealing to the board of gov-ernors of the club to declare that the resolution of Judge Edward F. O'Dwyer demanding Mr. Murphy's retirement from politics was not really passed.

Their argument is that President O'Dwyer and his friends do not represent "true Democratic sentiment" and that the National Democratic Club has no righ o raise its voice in local affairs anyway Mr. Murphy professed to treat the reso-lution with serene contempt. He said: "I'm the leader of Tammany Hall, and I'm going to remain the leader of Tammany Hall. That's all; it's closed now.

It was learned that Sanborn had agreed to support the child, the father and mother to share his custody.— Mrs. Sanborn was once a pupil at the Misses Ely's school on Riverside Drive, New York.

Mrs. Sanborn petitioned for the annulment of her husband's divorce decree on December 25 last in the Middlesex Superior Court in Boston. She charged that the decree was obtained without her knowledge and while she was ill in bed. She had deserted her husband in New York in 1907, she said, because of abusive treatment, non-support and unfaithfulness on his part.
